LED is designed to provide children with a clean, safe, and interesting environment that meets the child’s need to move. By understanding the developmental sequence of gross motor skills, activities give children opportunities to learn and practice new skills.

| 12. Fine Motor
Children demonstrate the ability to coordinate their small muscles in order to move and control objects. | ITT Foundations: Fine Motor Development, page 125-126

Infants and toddlers learn about the world around them through touch. LED activities provide developmentally-appropriate activities to support fine motor control, from grasping with their palms to eventually manipulating objects with their fingers. As a child progresses, he is able to use his hands for activities that require two or more movements.

| Basic hygiene practices are critical and are developed through consistent daily routines. LED supports quality practices that lead to healthy and safe habits for children. Children take an active role in their own personal hygiene from the time they are infants. |

Developmental Domain 3: Language Development, Communication, & Literacy

| 15. Social Communication
Children demonstrate the ability to engage with and maintain communication with others. |
| ITT Foundations: I Communicate Area, pages 31-32; Let's Talk: Language Development and Early Literacy, pages 180-189; Communication, pages 190-201.

| LED communication activities are based on the process of communication development from the most egocentric communication to reciprocal communication. The activities provided give children the opportunity to understand and practice communication with adults and peers, both verbally and nonverbally. |

| 16. Receptive Communication
Children demonstrate the ability to understand the communication of others. |

Infants, toddlers, and twos are like little scientists, engaged in endless experimentation as they learn to use tools, make things happen, and find out about the physical properties of things around them. All this leads to their ability to problem solve and later engage in more abstract thinking. |
